Need cash? That can be arranged

► Website connects starving students, aka 'sugar babies,' with wealthy 'patrons' ► NYU has highest number of registered members, creator says

New York University has the sweetest coeds of them all.

Nearly 500 students have signed up to be "sugar babies" on the dating site SeekingArrangement.com, claims site creator Brandon Wade.

The site matches wealthy "daddies" with cash-strapped undergrads. "NYU is the top school because the students have a high rent on top of tuition," said Wade.

NYU tuition, on top of room, board and book fees, can cost a whopping $58,000 a year, and some coeds are desperate for alternative ways to support themselves in an already pricey New York City, he said.

NYU students aren't alone in seeking "benefactors." Hundreds of students from top schools like the University of California, Berkeley, University of Michigan, and even Harvard University use the site, looking for sugar daddies or sugar mommas, according to Wade. He said he determines the number of college students based on those who join with .edu email addresses.

"When a sugar baby goes to a good school, she tends to boast," he said.

"I love New York and I'll do whatever it takes to make it here," advertised one NYU sugar baby.

IS IT OK TO SEEK OUT A SUGAR DADDY?
TWO OF METRO'S FEMALE STAFFERS SPEAK UP.

"I'm 23, graduated from NYU last year and have been (literally) a starving artist ever since."

New York City is the most popular city on the site, with Los Angeles not far behind, said Wade.

"It's a relationship and dating website, there's no money for sex," Wade said. "People don't want to sit across from a dumb blonde who can't hold a conversation."

Cough it up

Sugar babies can create profiles on Seeking Arrangement free of charge, but a basic sugar daddy membership costs $50 a month and "Diamond Club" daddies pay $2,160 a year to belong to the highest tier of the site.

Russian wives, rats star on new NYC reality TV

► Trio of programs filmed here coming up ► From exterminators to Russian housewives of Brighton Beach

New Yorkers, here are the people representing you on prime-time television this season:

Anastasia Kurinnaya, 26, is part of Lifetime's "Russian Dolls," a "Jersey Shore"-ish show that follows eight Brighton Beach Russians. The series premieres Thursday, Aug. 11, at 10:30 p.m.

It is one of three shows in the works featuring New Yorkers. The second is "Rat Busters NYC," which

Quoted

"I think people just want to see how others live their lives, in the boroughs around New York."

profiles two exterminators, and the third is "Paint the Town," following art gallery workers.

Promising a "famous, alluring, vibrant and highly protective community," "Russian Dolls" features shots of tanned, fur-clad women drinking vodka, hanging out in bars and, of course — this being reality TV — even getting into a few hair-pulling brawls.

Kurinnaya, who moved to Brooklyn from Ukraine

► Animal Planet's "Rat Busters," which premieres Aug. 26, follows Jimmy Tallman and Michael Morales as they hunt down vermin throughout the city.

when she was 3, was working in a medical office when she read about the show in a newspaper ad and applied.

"Not everyone gets a chance to do this," she told Metro. "I always wanted to be on camera. I always wanted to be a celebrity. I thought, why not?"

The beach-based show will portray Brooklynites in all their glory — and Kurinnaya did not rule out a bar fight or two.

"There's a lot of drama, I'll just say that," she said.

Equally dramatic will be rat-chasers Jimmy Tallman and Michael Morales, who battle roaches and vermin while cameras capture the action. "It shows the pressure, dealing with pests," Morales said. "It's constant: bed bugs, rats, roaches. It just never stops, and it's indicative of New York."

Bravo to follow gallerinas

On Bravo network, cameras will follow 20-somethings chasing their dream. "Paint the Town," a tentative title, follows young women — they've nicknamed themselves "gallerinas" — working at art galleries in Manhattan. The show is currently in production. In heels on gallery floors by day, and hip clubs by night, the show hopes to portray "a business with so few opportunities to rise up the ranks."

Supervisor at psychiatric center charged in death

► Erik Stanley accused of strangling autistic patient in December ► Turned himself in to authorities yesterday

A supervisor at a psychiatric facility in Staten Island turned himself in to police yesterday and was charged with strangling a patient to death.

Erik Stanley, 37, was working as a developmental aide supervisor at the South Beach Psychiatric Center on Dec. 4.

That was the day 27-year-old Jawara Henry, an autistic patient at the center, became extremely agitated and began biting other patients and staff there. As Stanley helped other staff try to restrain the man, he "caused Henry's death by using excessive pressure on the patient's neck and torso," said Staten Island District Attorney Daniel Donovan. "[Stanley] did not follow protocol nor use proper techniques while trying to restrain Henry," said Donovan.

Henry's death was ruled a homicide, and the city Medical Examiner found he died of asphyxia by neck and chest compression.

Yesterday's arrest comes after an eight-month investigation by Donovan's office. Stanley was charged with criminally negligent homicide and endangering the welfare of an incompetent or physically disabled person.

GROUND ZERO. Nearly three-fourths of Americans think the 9/11 cross should be included in the World Trade Center museum, according to a new report released yesterday.

Rasmussen Reports revealed that 72 percent of Americans say the principle of separation of church and state is not violated by having the 9/11 cross at the memorial.

An atheist group is suing to keep the cross out of the memorial, saying its presence violates the Constitution and excludes other religions by forcing Christianity at the site.

School safety agent arrested

BROOKLYN. A school safety agent was arrested Tuesday, after she was caught selling drugs, according to police. She allegedly tried to sell ecstasy to an undercover cop, according to reports. ● METRO/CB

In a day's work at Bronx Zoo

► From owl surgery to playing porcupine tag ► Bronx zookeeper wouldn't have it any other way

By her own admission, Kathleen LaMattina is much more comfortable with a 3-foot-long Indian Crested porcupine in her arms than she is speaking with a reporter.

One moment cleaning up emu droppings and the next making baby talk to a Fennec fox running circles around her, LaMattina is tailor-made for the job of acclimating 300 animals to human contact for the Bronx Zoo's outreach programs in New York. In fact, she often takes them home with her overnight.

What did you first do when you got into work?

First I checked on all the animals and said 'hi' to my zookeepers to make sure everything was OK. Then I played with Buckley, a wallaby that I hand-raised after his mother tried to eat him. Wallabies eat their young? He was probably just bitten as she was trying to get him out of her pouch. It's very energy inexpensive to give birth to a kangaroo or wallaby, but to actually raise the baby takes a long time. So if she's not feeling well, the mother decides to focus on herself. It happens in the wild.

So what did you do after you

What's next?

I'm going to work on animal-enrichment activities. We worry about the physical well being of animals, but their psychological well being is just as important. We build sandboxes for our desert foxes and make toys for our parrots. Then I'm going to play with Jerika, a blue and gold macaw who was actually sketched for the movie "Rio." Then Stickers and I are going to run laps later. She's an Indian Crested porcupine. We run up and down the hall — she chases us, then we chase her.

played with the wallaby?

I had to bring an owl in for a surgical procedure. He has a tumor on his foot. He came here in 1994, the same year that I came, actually. We take care of animals from the cradle to the grave.

Are you a vegetarian?

For 31 years.

Do you think most people are who work here?

They're all carnivores! But I don't preach. I cook meat for my mom. Can you believe it — she actually asked me what emus taste like?

Budweiser can gets new design

NEW YORK. The King of Beers is seeing red.

Anheuser-Busch-InBev is giving the Budweiser can a makeover as it tries to reignite growth in the key U.S. beer market, and the new can will have a lot more red than its predecessor.

AB InBev, the world's largest brewer with other beer brands such as Stella Artois and Beck's, said on Wednesday that it was changing the design to give it an "updated look."

The new design keeps the same logos, including a red bow tie and gold-colored crown. It will roll out in the U.S. this summer and in other markets later this year, the Belgium-based company said. REUTERS

Overactive bladder is next Botox frontier

Overactive bladders could become the next big frontier for Botox, the anti-wrinkle drug, later this year. It would significantly boost sales of the $1.5 billion-a-year product, according to Allergan Inc.'s chief executive, David Pyott.

Allergan earlier on Wednesday reported earnings growth for the second-quarter, fueled largely by sales of Botox for smoothing wrinkles and for a growing range of medical uses.

Overactive bladder, caused by uncontrollable contractions of the organ, causes frequent urination, urgent need to urinate and inability to control urination.

"Current drugs for overactive bladder just don't work that well," Pyott said in an interview, "and studies show that after a year, 70 percent of patients don't respond to treatment."

About Botox

Botox's active ingredient is a toxin that blocks nerve signals. It gets about half its sales from reducing wrinkles. It's also approved to prevent migraines, treat upper-limb spasticity, alleviate neck pain from cervical dystonia and aid certain types of eye-muscle problems as well as spasms of the eyelids.

pills called anticholinergics, including oxybutynin and GlaxoSmithKline PLC's Vesicare, are associated with dry mouth and can cause constipation and other side effects.

A single injection of Botox into the bladder can provide significant relief for up to nine months and significantly improve quality of life, Pyott said, particularly for adults who now need to wear diapers.

BlackBerry overhauls

TORONTO. Research In Motion unveiled two new versions of its touch-screen BlackBerry Torch yesterday as it seeks to regain ground it has lost to Apple and Google with powerful consumer-

Investors reacted favorably, pushing RIM's deflated stock price up more than 5 percent. But some analysts were skeptical, given delays leading up to this launch. They said a radically new software package due next year would be RIM's big test. REUTERS

China eyed in barrage of hackings

Security experts announced yesterday the discovery of an unprecedented series of cyber attacks spanning five years that affected the networks of 72 organizations globally, including the United Nations, governments and corporations.

Security company McAfee, which uncovered the intrusions, said it believed there was one "state actor" behind the attacks but declined to name it, though one security expert who has been briefed on the hacking said the evidence points to China.

Hulu follows Netflix, plans original content

NEW YORK. Hulu, the popular TV show website, is trying its hand at commissioning its own shows at a time when its programming partners are starting to trim back the availability of content.

The online video site said yesterday it will be airing a six-episode half-hour documentary series called "A Day in the Life," produced by filmmaker Morgan Spurlock this summer. Spurlock centers the series around a complete day in the lives of well known people, including entrepreneur Richard Branson.

The announcement comes just months after leading online video service Netflix Inc. commissioned a 26-part TV series called "House of Cards" starring Kevin Spacey. REUTERS

DC working on FAA shutdown

WASHINGTON. The White House said yesterday it was looking at ways to end a partial shutdown of the Federal Aviation Administration that has halted airport construction projects employing thousands of people and extended the summer's political battles.

But transportation experts said the Obama administration has little room to maneuver, and instead officials pressured Congress to break a deadlock that has held up FAA funds for 12 days so far.

WE ARE CONFIDENT OUR BUYERS WILL BEAT MOST LEGITIMATE OFFERS!

How to Test Us

Take your valuable items to other dealers before bringing them to us. Have them give you legitimate written offers. Then bring your items and your written offers to us. No one can guarantee to pay the highest prices all the time. But we believe the buyers we have chosen will beat most legitimate written offers.

Why Are We Telling You To Get Prices From Others?

Our buyers find it much easier to buy items of value from their customers after they have had previous offers. So it is in our own self interest to have you get written offers before coming to us. We also find that our customers are happier because they have the peace of mind of knowing they received a fair price.

Why Our Buyers May Be Able To Pay More

Our group of buyers will be here for only a few days. But in those few days, some of our buyers will buy more than many dealers buy in a year. Because of the volume of merchandise they handle, some of our buyers have developed world-wide markets and clients to liquidate their purchases at the best prices, which is one of the keys to why they can pay more than other dealers.

What Makes Us Different?

Most dealers who buy and sell items of value specialize in only a few areas. As a result, they are likely to make low offers for items in markets they are not familiar with.

For example, almost all jewelers specialize in new items. They do not often deal with old or used watches, which means they are unfamiliar with the true markets for such items. So if you have a used watch to sell, chances are a jeweler will make an offer on the low side because he does not want to make a mistake and pay too much.

The same thing applies to almost all items of value, such as lady items, art, jewelry, etc., that you bring to normal dealers.

Anderson, Carter, Bascom & Assoc. and Estate Buyer by MJD is different. Our volume buying has allowed us to bring together a large group of knowledgeable buyers. And although we do not control what our buyers pay, we believe they are comfortable paying prices that beat legitimate written offers from other dealers.

"UP TO" PRICES

IMPORTANT: All prices are based on rarity & condition. If an item is in poor condition, its value will be low. If an item is very rare, and in superb condition, it might be worth more than the "up to" prices listed. For example, a 1919 10¢ could be worth $1,400 in very high-quality condition or less than $1 in poor condition. In most cases, the "up to" prices listed in this advertisement are for items of exceptional rarity and quality. Chances are, you will not have those items. But we are willing to take the time to look at your items, just in case free of charge and give you our opinion.

IMPORTANT ECONOMIC INFORMATION

During the past few years, low interest rates, war, and an uncertain stock market combined to push prices of gold, silver, and many collectibles to their highest levels in 25 years. We have studied the investment and collectibles markets for decades, and in the past during times of economic uncertainty (which is happening now), there have been dramatic price declines in many areas of the jewelry, coin, and collectible markets. Which is why this may be the best time in decades for you to sell for some of the highest prices ever

Ripa keeping mum on Regis replacement

Kelly Ripa isn't too concerned with trying to find a replacement for her famed co-host Regis Philbin when he leaves "Live! with Regis and Kelly" at the end of November. "All I want to do is enjoy and celebrate his legacy," she told Metro while co-hosting Super Saturday 14, an annual benefit for the Ovarian Cancer Research Fund on Saturday in Water Mill, N.Y. "After he leaves, we'll worry about getting a guy or gal in there." But she did tell the throng of reporters that the change-up won't be boring. "I don't think there will be a Regis replacement — I think it will be a totally new person."

—Additional reporting by Jeryl Brunner

► Note that Ripa said, "guy or gal." Could Regis' replacement be a lady?

Janet Jackson is engaged?

Janet Jackson is reportedly engaged to Qatari businessman and billionaire Wissam Al Mana — and has been for almost a year, according to Hollyscoop. Sources say the secret proposal happened last year, but Jackson was in the middle of a tour and wasn't ready to go public with it yet. "Janet's telling friends that an official

Lea 'short stuff' Michele

"Glee" star Lea Michele is the first to admit she doesn't have the most conventional Hollywood look. "I'm 5-foot-3. I don't look like a lot of other people, you know what I mean? I look like I'm 12," the 25-year-old actress tells Harper's Bazaar. And it's not just her small stature that has been Winehouse was going to wed?

Amy Winehouse had lots of plans for the future when her life came to an end last month. Aside from her plans to adopt a young girl from St. Lucia, the tragic singer was reportedly planning to marry boyfriend Reg Traviss, according to the Sun. "Amy was adamant about sorting herself out. Reg's proposal made her even more determined. She didn't want to carry on the way she was," a source says. "She wanted nothing more than to be his wife and to start a family with him. She wanted to get rid of her demons so badly."

'The Glee Project': 'Boot camp' for the big league

No one has been named the next star of "Glee" just yet, but the contestants on "The Glee Project" already feel like bona fide celebrities. On Monday night, the final six singers walked the red carpet at NBCUniversal's Television Critics Association party at trendy The Bazaar by Jose Andres in Los Angeles; and each of them looked every bit a star, too.

"It was amazing," contestant Alex Newell gushed the next day. "We all love to perform, but to get recognized for what we do and what we love to do is amazing. I know that I loved it, and I know that everybody loved to be on a red carpet for the first time too."

The downside of fame via a reality competition, however, is that only one contestant wins the grand prize of a seven-episode guest stint on "Glee." The producers admit the process of whittling down the talent pool on a weekly basis was "excruciating."

CHRIS HASTON/NBC

Then there were five

Though Cameron Mitchell left the competition because he was uncomfortable with the sexual situations he may have had to portray on "Glee," he still attended Tuesday's TCA press conference and says he doesn't regret returning home.

"To some it might seem hasty. But it was something that I truly felt in my heart," he says. "And when you make a decision like that, I think it's really hard to regret it. You just have to follow what you believe. And I believe that, you know, when a door closes, another door opens. And it's only going to lead to great things."

THE TELEVISION CRITICS ASSOCIATION PRESS TOUR, A MEETING OF JOURNALISTS AND NETWORKS TO PREVIEW NEW AND RETURNING SERIES, KICKED OFF LAST WEEK. FOLLOW OUR COVERAGE ONLINE AT WWW.METRO.US/TV AND ON TWITTER: @AMBERATMETRO.

"Everyone is fit for the show, which made our decision even more difficult," says mentor Zach Woodlee, who also serves as choreographer/producer on "Glee." "We actually had to look at this show as a trial and sort of a boot camp to get people Season 3-ready. So each week it was who is raising the bar. We would sit there and be like, who is making the most progress in this week. It's who was ready to be at Season 3 quality of our cast on the scripted show."

So is there any chance more than one competitor might wind up walking the halls of McKinley High?

"Ultimately that's up to ['Glee' creator] Ryan Murphy," mentor Robert J. Ulrich says. "But they're all wonderful enough to have that chance; and as a casting director, I would keep them in mind for everything else that I do."

Longoria fights for farmworker rights

► Why the actress executive-produced "The Harvest/La Cosecha" ► What you can do to help

When she's not stirring up drama on "Desperate Housewives," Eva Longoria is a passionate philanthropist for a variety of causes, including farmworker rights. As the executive producer of "The Harvest/La Cosecha," Longoria, 36, sought to raise awareness of child farmers and the challenges they face on and off the fields. She spoke with us about her involvement and how you can help the cause.

How much did you know about this issue before you got involved with the film?
I've always been a farmworker advocate, but even I was surprised to find out the statistics of child farmworkers. I was floored to learn how many children still work in agriculture in the United States, and how many kids are unprotected, uneducated and live in poverty. I was literate of the community and the dialogue, but I was very ignorant of the amount of children still in the fields.

Would you say that's what surprised you the most about this topic?
Yeah. I was honored to be able to humanize the issue

Get involved

You've introduced the CARE Act, which seeks to change the laws for child farmers, on Capitol Hill. What can we do to get involved?
Call your congressperson and try to help get the CARE Act passed. On the smaller scale, you should always eat organic because the pesticides that are used in the field are in a measurement that is for a 150-pound male. If you're smaller than a 150-pound male, those doses affect you. By eating organic, you're not only eating better for yourself — you'll know that [a] child was not sprayed with a chemical while picking the food that you're eating.

by doing this film and telling this story of these kids. It's one thing to hear statistics all the time, but when you hear the story of Zulema, who was one of those children, suddenly that statistic has meaning and it's humanized.

Why were you drawn to this particular issue?

Because I eat fruits and vegetables. You don't have to be a farmer to fight for farmworker rights — it's called compassion. This is one issue that I heard about early on in my activism and I thought this affects everybody.

Were you surprised to learn that these practices take place in America?

Absolutely. America has some of the strictest import/export laws, but yet we allow [this] to happen in our own country, and it's a little hypocritical. The laws protect the big businesses because these are not family farms anymore. These laws only give the economic advantage to big corporations, and big corporations use lobbyists to say the cost will pass on to the consumer. Therefore, the legislation and the policy doesn't change because of these strong agro-business lobbyists, who will pass any kind of increase in salary or wages on to the consumer. That's not fair.

Tonight, get 'LA Ink'ed

► This 'LA Ink' co-star is still figuring out how to be on camera

TLC's "LA Ink" has been on hiatus for almost eight months and cast member Corey Miller has been using his time away from production to catch up with his loved ones and work on his own L.A.-based business Six Feet Under, a hybrid tattoo parlor and store which sells his artwork and designs.

"I'm really happy to be back home spending time with my family, especially the kids. I bring them to school every morning but I just can't do that when I'm filming," Miller says. "Now I'm expanding my own business and attending to my own clients away from the stress of the camera."

While being a reality TV star was never an easy job for the reluctant Miller (he famously walked out at the end of the first half of Season 4, a dramatic departure which he says was totally unscripted), he admits that being on the show does have some perks.

"I was a little wary and guarded as I was not sure if I could be myself on TV," Miller remembers. "But at the end of the day, my work is being recognized and it is this nationwide recognition that makes it very exciting."

A Jedi of the sci-fi

► Director Joe Cornish on the film that's winning over both critics and audiences ► What 'Attack the Block' and 'Star Wars' share

Since its debut at the SXSW Film Festival in March, writer/director Joe Cornish's indie sci-fi "Attack the Block" has won a steady stream of audience awards and rave reviews. It's a reception Cornish doesn't take lightly. "I think the combined power of the Internet and bloggers is just as powerful as any marketing machine, I hope," he says. He sat down with Metro to talk about the film, which is set for a broader national release.

Why do you think the British council estate continues to be such fertile ground for film and TV?

Those places were built in a spirit of great optimism after the war. They replaced lots of slums and they were seen as sort of futuristic, exciting, utopian housing projects. In the years that have passed, they've kind of become symbolic of the opposite — of people who find themselves in difficult positions. And they've been used in films, certainly, for quite downbeat, depressing narratives. My film was an attempt to actually take it back to that futuristic aesthetic.

The heroes of the movie start out as petty criminals, but you end up sympathizing with them.

Actually, it happens a hell of a lot in movies. I think it's interesting because he's young, it's possibly something to do with his color, that people react more strongly to this character than they do, for instance, to Ben Affleck's character in "The Town" that holds a submachine gun to a woman's head and forces her to open a safe, and yet 10 minutes later they're romancing each other in the laundrette.

Given that this is your first feature, what did you learn about making films?

I didn't realize you had to rewrite to budget. I was reading that amazing "Making of 'Star Wars'" book. Darth Vader had his own planet and his own spaceship, but they made the spaceship a planet to save money. If there's one thing I'm learning from directors of big-budget films, it's that the problems are the same.

► Frost and Treadaway in "Attack the Block."

10 Reasons to go to the movies

Must-see

1 'The Change-Up' Body-switching comedies come around oh, every three years or so, but this one starring Jason Bateman and Ryan Reynolds might be one of the first to offer plenty of hilarious raunch along the way.

Bateman and Reynolds

2 'Rise of the Planet of the Apes' Rather than a remake of the 1960s classic or the early aughts disaster, this "Apes" film shows the origins of a global primate takeover, co-starring James Franco and Freida Pinto.

3 'Crazy, Stupid, Love' Ryan Gosling goes against type as a super-smooth womanizer, while Steve Carell does anything but as a clumsy, newly-single suburban dad.

4 'Cowboys & Aliens' Harrison Ford and Daniel Craig face off in this sci-fi/western mash-up. Somehow not convinced? Olivia Wilde plays their damsel in distress.

5 'The Smurfs' Katy Perry lends her voice to Smurfette and Neil Patrick Harris plays a reluctant Smurf host in the live action/CGI take on the cartoon.

6 'Captain America: The First Avenger' Chris Evans puts his square jaw to use as the Marvel Comics hero.

7 'Friends With Benefits' Justin Timberlake and Mila Kunis attempt to make work what absolutely no one else in the history of predictable rom-coms has been able to. At least they'll look hot doing it.

8 'Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 2' You may have heard about this little sleeper hit. The final installment of the franchise pits Potter against his lifelong nemesis, the creepily noseless Lord Voldemort.

9 'Winnie the Pooh' No 3-D, no computer animation, just a purely delightful little film starring some old friends in the charming Hundred Acre Wood.

10 'Horrible Bosses' No one likes working for a maneater, a psychopath or a total jerk, but only a few of us would actually embark on eliminating said boss. Jason Sudeikis, Charlie Day and Jason Bateman star as three hard-working men who attempt to do just that.

The recent circus of raising the debt ceiling was accomplished with smoke and mirrors. Our military is going to be neutered in an era of rising Chinese economic and military strength while the floodgates of illegals remains open. Those who questioned our obscene spending binges are called "terrorists" by Vice President Biden with no outrage from the press. The Tea Party is the only force who is not yet influenced by Soros, Goldman Sachs and the Federal Reserve types who have been driving us to the edge of the cliff for years. When the media attacks something that might turn this country around from a death dive into the ground, you had better question their motives! We are running out of options to avert a total meltdown of our society. Chairman Obama has almost competed the most amazing transformation in the history of the world.

JOSEPH DUPONT, VIA E-MAIL

Fiscal responsibility

We have given the keys to the bar to a bunch of alcoholics. There will be no booze left when we return to check on it. That is how I see this new debt ceiling raise. It is the creation of a "Super Congress" that will continue to tax the American people, claiming that we need to live in austerity while they continue to own their mansions, yachts, jets, expensive cars, etc.

JAMES WINSTANLEY, STATEN ISLAND

"After all the acquisitions the Jets made during free agency, you would think he would be confident enough that he wouldn't have to paint a bull's-eye on the back of the Pats! If Randy Moss would reconsider his one-year offer, I believe he would get his Super Bowl ring!"

JEFF HURLEY, VIA E-MAIL,
ON REX RYAN, NY JETS COACH

The politics of fear

I find it utterly unconscionable that two agenda items that normally pass as a matter of course were used as poker chips — the debt ceiling raise and the FAA authorization continuing resolution. Though default was narrowly averted at great national cost, a crushing blow to the construction industry was dealt due to the epic failure concerning the FAA. Not only were 4,000+ FAA employees furloughed, but number of stop-work orders to engineering and construction contractors, most likely soon to be including my company's program, grows daily. The madness must stop. It cannot wait for Congress to come back from vacation.

AARON J. SAMUELSON, REGO PARK

Horoscope

Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Constructive results are possible with whatever it is you're doing — but only as long as you perform in accordance with your highest standards.

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Several significant objectives can be accomplished, provided you're not saddled with a co-worker who has little interest in doing a bit of work.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Even though, upon reflection, you can see how you could do things better than what you promised, stick to the terms of your initial commitment. It would be far worse to get in over your head at the last second.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. You'll get much more than a paycheck if you render your best effort toward your job. Your self-esteem and self-worth will be greatly enhanced in ways hard to come by.

Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Bring into play all of your instincts, your memory and your logic if you find yourself involved in a difficult endeavor. Collectively, they can help you accomplish the impossible.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. It might take all of the gumption you've got to accomplish a critical assignment, but what you will get out of it personally will be worth it — and that isn't likely to mean money.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. Don't complain from the sidelines about something you're involved with that is being mishandled. Roll up your sleeves and shape things up yourself — from top to bottom if need be.

Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. If you've accumulated a bit of a surplus lately, don't blow it all on having a good time. At least use some of it on loved ones who deserve it.

Aries March 21-April 19. Not everybody is as perceptive as you tend to be, so if you believe you can better the ideas of what others have to offer, let your thoughts be known.

Taurus April 20-May 20. Instead of always expecting more from others, make it your turn to devise some ways to repay them for all they've done for you in the past. They'll be happy, and you'll feel good too.

Gemini May 21-June 20. When attempting to complete a complicated task, don't pretend to know things you really don't. Seek out the information you need.

Cancer June 21-July 22. Although your intuitive insights might be a bit more accurate than usual, it will still be up to you to find a way to execute them as cleverly as you envision them. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

It's an Xbox summer

Sidescroller

LAWRENCE BONK
LAWRENCE.BONK@METRO.US

It's hot out there and barbecues are overrated. Stay indoors and play video games. Every summer, Microsoft releases a cadre of downloadable titles for their Xbox Live platform. We check out two of the five games that make up the "Summer of Arcade."

'From Dust'

Publisher: Ubisoft

Cost: $15

Grade: 00000

Ever since "Populous" graced PCs in the late 80s, titles where we role-play as God have entertained gamers the world over.

"Bastion" is "very nearly the world's most perfect" role-playing game.

There's just something cool about guiding those simple tribal folk to enlightenment. Enter "From Dust," one of the more unique God games on the block.

First of all, you are not omniscient. You only control the land. This means you'll be spending time protecting your citizens from floods, fires and whatever else plagued our silly ancestors. The game also wisely places emphasis on cultivation. The more vegetation you spread across a map, the more wildlife and skills your villagers acquire. Watch out, though. Later levels are harder than inventing the wheel.

'Bastion'

Publisher: Warner Bros.

Interactive

Cost: $15

Grade: 00000

"Bastion" is very nearly the world's most perfect action RPG. There are so many weapons and items to upgrade it'll make even the most OCD-stricken among us jump for joy. The controls are tight and fluid, feeling more like a 2-D Zelda title than your traditional hack-and-slash.

The game features an omnipresent narrator, who comments on just about everything. The world can seem a mite claustrophobic, however. It would benefit from a few more branching paths. Still — for RPG fans, there's no better place to drop 15 bucks.

Tom Moore: Armchair consultant

► Tom Moore built the offense Peyton Manning ran for his entire career with the Colts.

► Architect of Peyton Manning's Colts offense brings eye to Jets ► Sees lots of potential in offense, Sanchez

The Jets' secret weapon this season certainly won't be Plaxico Burress or Santonio Holmes.

Chances are, the biggest addition to the offense will be sitting in his South Carolina home for much of this year, watching the game on television. Meet Tom Moore, who will literally be the team's armchair quarterback — well, armchair consultant.

For over a dozen years, Moore was the offensive coordinator of the high-powered Colts offense — one of the most dynamic passing attacks in NFL history. Moore is credited with being the mastermind behind quarterback Peyton Manning's ability to rewrite the record books.

Moore retired at the end of last year and this past

"It doesn't get much better than having Tom Moore sitting in that room with you."

REX RYAN, JETS HEAD COACH

June joined the Jets as a consultant to the offense.

"I'd known Rex for a long time, having competed against him. I have great respect for him," Moore told Metro. "This spring, (offensive line coach) [Bill] Callahan called me and asked me if I'd be interested in consulting. I came up for a couple days and I'm here now."

He's "here now," but that may not last too long.

Moore's role with the team is strictly as a consultant — and while he will be present during training camp, he won't be actively engaged in game-planning on a weekly basis.

Moore sees plenty of potential from the offense and quarterback Mark Sanchez.

"Sanchez is special, the kid is just special," Moore said. "He's won a lot of game in this league the past two years and he's now really starting to grow."

SPORTS@METRO.US

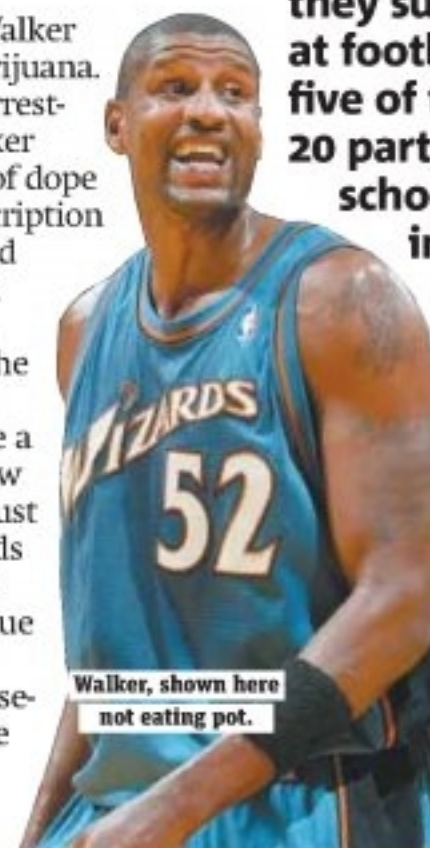

You know we love a bizarre arrest story, so here's one that emerged last week from Las Vegas. Samaki Walker, a former NBA lottery pick who starred at Louisville, was pulled over by police in a routine traffic stop. Then, it gets fun..

According to police, Walker attempted to eat marijuana. Seriously? Yes. The arresting officers said Walker had about 10 grams of dope on him, along with some prescription drugs and eight bottles of liquid steroids. There was no detailed description of what happened when Walker tried to devour the buds.

But wouldn't you love to see a time lapse video of the next few hours of Walker in a jail cell, just in case he got high. That sounds like something straight out of, "Super Troopers II," which is due out later this year.

Walker, for the record, was selected four spots ahead of Kobe Bryant in the 1996 NBA draft.

Twitter is dangerous

We recently alerted you to the budding romance of tennis star Caroline Wozniacki and golfer Rory McIlroy.

Quoted

Not only are they superior at football, but five of the top 20 party schools are in the SEC.

Well, there's been a development — sort of.

The two have been joking pretty publicly on Twitter. She asks if he needs a tennis coach; he "might know someone" who could help — and I found that odd since ... if they were really dating, why not text or call one another, instead of putting it out there for the thousands of people who follow them via social media? (She has 165,000 followers; he has 563,000.)

But here's where it gets interesting. Some joker noticed the back and forth and decided to include McIlroy's ex-girlfriend (also on Twitter, of course) in the conversation, saying she wouldn't be happy with the flirting.

Her response? "Bit late for that ..."

Ain't no party like an SEC party 'cause ...

The Princeton Review put out its annual list of the nation's "Top 20 Party Schools." While I haven't picked up a copy of the magazine to break down the criteria, a few things stand out (get out your pad and pen, high schoolers):

SEC rules. Not only are they superior at football, but five of the top 20 party schools in the country are in the Southeastern Conference (Georgia, No. 2; Ole Miss No. 3; Florida, No. 9; LSU, No. 13; South Carolina No. 20).

What do they have against the West Coast?

Other than UCSB and Arizona State, do they not party west of the Mississippi?

And no love for the Northeast? Only Syracuse (No. 12) and Vermont (No. 19) made the list. And I'm not counting Penn State as the Northeast, since it's closer to Pittsburgh than Philly.

Mets' playoff hopes being thrown away

Playoff aspirations can dissipate in the sweltering August humidity. Even for a team on the playoff periphery.

It is why Terry Collins felt compelled to speak to his team after Tuesday night's 4-3 loss to division rival Florida in which Justin Turner's mental and physical error in the ninth inning allowed the Marlins to score two runs. Florida has won the first two games of the series and the Mets are back at .500 (55-55).

"They have to know I care. This isn't a joke. These games count. Winning is what we're supposed to do," Collins said before last night's series finale. "These guys take this stuff personally. They have to. This is who they are. They're frustrated, especially when they cost the team a win. They like each other so much, it's like they let down everybody. One thing about Justin Turner is that he'll get over it."
